

I am writing to request that you do not implement any proposal that will lessen Indiana's privacy protections. Since joining the "Do not call" list, solicitation calls are almost non-existent at our home. This is very important since my husband works the midnight shift & does not appreciate being woken up during the day with an irritating solicitation call about a product or service that he is not interested in. In the evening, it is very pleasant to be able to eat our dinner with an unnecessary interruption. These calls are not necessary because neither of us has ever taken advantage of any phone offer presented to us. If we were interested in these services/products, we would be contacting these companies. I would estimate that we received approx. 10 calls a week before joining the list. At this time, it is rare that we receive 1 call a month. It would be a shame to go back to the way it was because the Federal law is not as restrictive as our current Indiana law.
